Major Lockhart Buys Newspaper

Canyon Boy Takes Over the Canadian Record After Discharge From the Army

MAJOR VINCENT M. LOCKHART

Sale of The Canadian Record, an outstanding and long established weekly newspaper of the Panhandle has just been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Noble, owners and publishers, to Major Vincent M. Lockhart, a former member of the Canyon News staff.

Mr. Noble says he chose with care a buyer, first, a native Texan, a good newspaper man and one who will be a part of the community. Mr. Noble feels that Major Lockhart, will ably meet those requirements. Mrs. Lockhart is a former Canadian girl and a charming person. They have an infant son, William Welford.

During the ownership of The Record by Mr. and Mrs. Noble they sponsored many progressive enterprises, such as county and state paved highways, civic and educational buildings, parks and playgrounds, besides Bond drives.

Major Lockhart started on his newspaper career as a printer's devil for the Canyon News, then was sports writer for the Prairie, WTSC newspaper. It was at that time he met his wife who was also attending that college. He received his journalism degree from the University of Missouri and was employed on the Eastern Shore Times, a weekly paper in Maryland, then on the Amarillo News-Globe. There he was progressively promoted to state editor and finally copy desk chief of the Globe.

From this latter position, Lockhart was granted military leave in November 1940, and went on active duty with the famous 36th "Texas" division as a second lieutenant of infantry, serving under his late father, a captain, in Company F, 142nd Infantry.

During five years of military service he was promoted to the position of assistant adjutant general of the 36th division and attained the rank of major, which he now holds upon his relief from active duty.

He saw service in North Africa and his initial combat was on D-Day at Salerno, where he was acting as assistant G-1 of the 36th division and supervised the collection and the evacuation of the battle dead.

Later actions gave him battle participation awards for the Naples-Foggia, Rome - Arno, Southern France, Rhineland and Central European campaigns. He was decorated with the Bronze Star medal for his exceptional achievement in Italy. He wears a total of five ribbons, including the Bronze Star medal, American Defense Service medal, American Theater ribbon, European Theater ribbon and the World War II Victory medal.

New Department Will Be Added After the Completion of 2-Story Addition

Work was started Monday on the construction of an addition to Thompson's Hardware Co. building on the east side of the square.

The firm recently bought the Reid building to the south of the hardware department. An addition 30x86 feet, two stories will be built at the rear of the Reid building.

The first floor will house the farm equipment department of the firm. The second floor will be used for storage.

The room occupied by the Duck Inn will be taken over as an appliance department. The front door of this room will be closed, and two openings made between the hardware and gift department into the appliance department. There will be another opening from the main store into the farm equipment department.

Cemetery Association Will Meet

The Cemetery Association will meet Saturday at 4:00 o'clock in the Thompson Club Rooms.

There is need for cleaning each individual lot in most of the cemetary. With only one man working, it is quite difficult to keep the entire plot looking as we wish it to look without help from the individuals interested. If you have done no work on your lot recently, the beauty of the cemetery would be greatly increased if you would come and spend an afternoon at work there.

$600,000 To Be Spent on Campus

Dormitory Space Will Meet Urgent Needs of Enlarged Student Body of College

Authority for a campus building program which may reach $600,000 has been granted West Texas State College by the Board of Regents, it is announced by President J. A. Hill.

Planned to end an acute housing shortage here, the construction will raise the dormitory capacity to quarters for 300 boys and 500 girls. The projects include:

Girls' dormitory of 125 capacity fronting Cousins Hall, to cost a maximum of $300,000. Cousins Hall now houses about 130 girls.

Annex to Stafford Hall, boys' dormitory, to house 120 men with present facilities, which provide for 38 men. The minimum cost would be $200,000.

Annex to Terrill Hall, raising its capacity from 36 to 100 men, and costing a maximum of $100,000.

These buildings will be financed by issuance of bonds, to be retired from pledged revenues of the dormitories. Preparation of plans and specifications will begin immediately, Dr. Hill said.

An annex to Randall Hall for girls is already financed at $80,000 and most of the materials needed are on hand. This annex will increase the capacity by one hundred girls. The College also has been authorized to seek hutments from the government to provide temporary housing for returning war veterans.

Other projected campus construction includes a $60,000 addition to the Plains Museum and a $50,000 chapel, which are being financed by private contributions of Panhandle citizens.

Needs of the college will be studied by the Board of Regents here December 7. It will be an annual visit by the board.

Before going into the Army Mr. Crosby was in the Appliance business in Santa Maria, California, but like a great many other soldiers, near homefolk seems good now.

LOOKING FORWARD

The Panhandle has been accused of being the world's greatest "next year" section of the nation. We may fail in crops this year, but we look hopefully to next year. That is the reason we are a hardy people, full of optimism, with the determination not to be whipped by present difficulties.

Wonder if the people of the nation as a whole are so forward looking?

For almost four years we kept saying, "after the war," we shall have the things we need. The war has ended, but still these needed items have not appeared on the markets. There are plenty of "samples" of the needed articles, but few are offered for sale.

The manufacturers have been handicapped by strikes and material shortages, which kept these necessities off the market. That is their story.

On the other hand the manufacturers are being accused of deliberately holding off the market goods which are stored in warehouses awaiting a reduction of taxes on January 1st.

Which of these is true, we have no idea. But now we are told, "just wait until after January 1st and you will find plenty of goods."

We are waiting, all right, but not many of the consumers like this waiting while management and labor fight to determine which is going to get the larger slice of profits in the future. The consumer is the innocent by-stander who is getting the swift kick in the pants.

Just who is on trial at this Pearl Harbor investigation? We were under the impression that the commanding officers who refused to cooperate were the ones being investigated. It looks as if the committee was more interested in trying to smear some one else than those in command. The name of President Roosevelt continues to bob up in the investigation. Of course Roosevelt had a lot to do with war planning, and probably made mistakes. But since he is not here to defend or to explain his actions, it looks like a pretty low-down trick to try to saddle the blame on a dead man. In the meanwhile, the two principals and their sub-ordinate officers have not been called to testify. Why were they not put on the witness stand first to give their version of the tragedy, and then bring in other public officials who had something to do with the case? If they wished to lay the blame on Roosevelt, the records could be investigated to either prove or disprove their charges. The whole investigation is shot through and through with politics—looking to the elections of 1946 and 1948.

Do you pay Social Security? A large part of the nation's workers are paying this tax in order that they shall be secure when they reach retirement age. All right, how do you like the idea of strikers throughout the nation making a big haul on this fund while you continue to work? When a man goes on strike he is no longer employed, and is entitled to unemployment benefits. There are something less than a million persons in voluntary idleness who are being supported by the 50 or more million workers who prefer to stay on their jobs. Every employer also kicks in on this fund, and likewise sees the money which he puts up for the benefit of his employees going to persons who refuse to work. Is that fair? You answer.

One of the most dangerous criminals in the Southwest is at large. He killed two men in Oklahoma and was serving two life sentences. The kind hearted Governor of Oklahoma gave the criminal, Matt Kimes, a parole, since Kimes said that he wanted to go straight. He is now charged with robbing a bank. The FBI has placed its key men on the trail of the criminal. No one has yet been killed, but it is pretty certain that there will be some more shooting when Kimes is cornered. Thus we see demonstrated the fallacy of playing too loose with the criminal class of the nation. It is going to cost thousands of dollars to again get Kimes behind the bars, to say nothing of the blood which may be wasted. Criminals are seldom convinced that crime does not pay.

THE "LITTLE FELLOWS" THE GOATS

All of us "little fellows" are more than mildly interested in talk that's going around Washington relative to unemployment benefits, fair-trade practices, wage increases, 30-hour weeks and similar movements.

We are told that wages are to be increased in factories and industry but that the price of the finished product is to be kept down by the OPA. In other words, instead of passing on increased cost of production to the consumer, it will be absorbed by the producer, processor and retailer.

We are inclined to agree with the views of the editor of the New Republic who states that if the red tape artists at Washington can do this and get away with it, then they are indeed greater than Houdini, Gordien and other magicians who have gone before.

The fact is, of course, that the screws are to be applied to little business again. Big business may be able to stand the pressure a while because of its enormous reserves but little business will be crushed.

What will happen? Nobody knows, but it won't be anything good. The crackpots say they can in this way have higher costs and prevent inflation.

But if business absorbs the higher cost without increasing prices then profits will disappear and the income tax returns will shrink like an over-ripe orchid. The less taxes it gets the more money the government will have to borrow and the nearer we will get to inflation.

When the thousands of strikers get their pay checks boosted and it costs more to produce things the consumer needs, we're going to pay those additional expenses. To talk otherwise is silly.

Rationing is a thing of the past except in the case of sugar and tires. We are told that sugar will be scarce throughout next year simply because the sugar producing countries are demanding that they sell to us their 1946-7-8 crops at prevailing high prices. Our country will not buy the 1947-8 crops at the present time, but the 1946 crop is being withheld from the market until the squabble is settled. In other words, our good neighbors to the south are seeking to put the harpoon into good old Uncle Sam who is the international goat when it comes to bad bargains. The tire situation seems to be about as illogical. We have been told by men connected with the tire industry that warehouses throughout the nation are loaded to the ceilings with casings awaiting release orders. The army and navy have first call on all casings, but will not release them. However, if a release order should come, it is unlikely that many new casings would be offered on the market until after January 1 because of the tax situation. In the meanwhile, OPA is battling to hold down prices. If OPA should be disbanded before there is a sizeable stock of goods flowing to retail channels, you would see prices skyrocket, and deadly inflation would follow. The white collared workers would be the ones caught in the squeeze, and would suffer most.

We read that all you hear in Washington is "the next war." Has our nation become so military-minded and has our government been so firmly strangled by military might that all we can think of is war? Washington openly talks about a war with Russia. Why? Do we have military men who are deliberately leading us into war for the sake of a career, while our State Department is making no effort to become friendly with Russia? We are blaming the attitude of Russia. Are the Russians all to blame? Just how much have we tried, and how much has England tried to understand Russia and to become friends with Russia? Instead of spending so much time and energy in investigating the mistakes of Pearl Harbor, we are of the opinion that we could spend our time more profitably in looking into the future for the purpose of avoiding another war. We cannot see how the resources of this nation can stand another war without making slaves of all of our citizens.

We wonder just what the Nazi war criminals think of the trial now underway. The Nazi method is to shoot their victims and forget them. Under international law these criminals are being offered every opportunity to prove their innocence. There is little likelihood of any of them escaping, but they will be given a fair trial. In the meanwhile, the Allies are hoping to corkscrew vital information from them as to the operations of other Nazi criminals in Germany. The aim is to whip out the whole bed of rats as a result of this farflung trial.

AMERICA BETRAYED

At the end of a war which cost the nations of the world tens of millions of lives, unspeakable suffering, material losses beyond human calculation, and which closed with the discovery of a weapon so devastating that the destruction of human life on earth can conceivably be accomplished at the press of a button—to repeat, at the end of this cosmic catastrophe, what do we find? The natural expectancy would be to find humility and thankfulness for peace in the heart of every man; a devout determination to strengthen the religious, governmental, industrial and scientific institutions which have grown slowly through centuries of trial and error, and which have reached a peak here in our own United States, giving all of our people, as individuals, a stature and dignity never before known. But do we find these things here?

The most obvious fact in the United States today is that business men, laborers, farmers, politicians—all of us—are trying to escape the natural consequences of a long and terrible war. But this is not so strange perhaps as the fact that in trying to escape these consequences, we are willing to scrap our nation's financial integrity, our form of government, and just about every heritage of mankind that this country possesses. The accent is on phony material security, even at the price of personal liberty. Many public officials are more concerned with measures that are politically popular at the moment, than with justice or political integrity. We are shouting for easy living, despite the fact that we are faced with ruin if we do not work very hard. Labor has served notice that it intends to increase its social gains with less work and more pay. Again, the accent is on personal profit above everything else. Our nation rode to the financial crest of a war boom over the bodies of a million men who gave all they had in mortal conflict for the sake of the spiritual treasures of civilization, and now it proposes to stay on that easy living crest by hook or crook.

This spectacle should bring fear to the hearts of the thoughtful—fear for all mankind.

It looks as if General Motors and CIO are in for a show down. The union asked for a 30% increase in wages. The company offered 10%. The union set a deadline for its demands, which the company refused. The offer of 10% increase was withdrawn after the strike started. Thus we see an example of two hard headed groups who are determined not to agree. Neither the company nor the union will budge an inch. The public has a great interest in this needless warfare within a great industrial institution. The union hopes that the government will take over the GM plants and give it what it demands, as was the case in wartime. The management believes that the administration will not dare stick out its neck, in view of the defeat of CIO at the polls in Detroit. In the meanwhile the public suffers because of the lack of materials which the workmen could be producing while they are out on strike. Socializing industry in America is not the answer. Sooner or later union bosses would find that they had led the laborers into a blind alley. The threat to public interest increases as the strike continues.

The mink may be the most popular fur-bearing animal, but we betcha the skunk is the most prominent.

Wonder when the government will stop living beyond our means?

JUST ANOTHER INCIDENT

A few months ago there was a nationwide furor over the bureaucratic shortcomings of the Veteran's Administration. Shamefully inadequate and obsolete practices were exposed in the veterans' hospitals. But the rush of events quickly pushed the incident onto the back pages. And, like many such incidents, the public has heard no more.

Here is a typical illustration of what would happen if the whole country should be included in a politically administered medical system. Individuals would be subjected, as the veterans were and perhaps still are, to questionable or incompetent care. As individuals, they could do nothing more than vent their displeasure. Trying to ferret out officials responsible for ill treatment would be akin to grappling with your shadow. When the situation became bad enough, a rash of condemnation would appear in the press. Investigations would be promised—as they were in the case of the Veterans' Administration—a few of the most glaring faults would be corrected, and then the evil system would settle down for another twenty years or so of dozing dogma and inefficiency.

This is no exaggeration. It is what would be faced by the people if they permit state or socialized medicine, whichever you wish to call it, to settle upon the country. It is the normal procedure of bureaucracy.

AN OLD, OLD STORY

Daniel Webster in the U. S. Senate, 1838:

There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation, and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the foundation of industry and dry all streams.

In a country of unbounded liberty, they clamor against oppression. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else, they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines.

In a country where the wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave.

Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They mean nothing, sir, but to enjoy the fruits of another man's labor.

It does not pay to be President of the United States. It is said that Truman will be $100,000 in debt by the end of a second term if he stays in the White House, in spite of a $75,000 per year salary. As a matter of fact there are few public offices in Washington which pay a sufficient amount for a decent living. Why then do men want those offices? The glory!

We read that CIO is refusing to restore its members who were called into the armed services. If that practice is general throughout the nation, there is danger ahead. Returning veterans are protesting CIO action in the auto industry especially. Whether other unions are following the same policy has not been disclosed.

Greeting Cards First Used in Victorian Era

The custom of sending greeting cards is perhaps the youngest member in the family of Christmas traditions, although the ideal was expressed by the Excelsis Deo of the angels.

Until authorities at the British museum recently discovered a drawing depicting four scenes of holiday celebration—early Victorian style—dated 1842, J. C. Horsley was accredited with having created the first commercial Christmas card in 1843.

The 1842 creation was an elaborate affair. Drawn by W. M. Edgley, it includes scenes of a dinner party—featuring the plum pudding, a group of carol singers, a crowd watching a Punch and Judy show, a panel of silk-hatted and cane-toting ice skaters, dancers doing a Roger de Coverly—the Victorian Conga—and evidence that the poor must not be forgotten.

It is impossible to say whether or not Mr. Horsley was aware of Edgley's masterpiece, but Horsley had a friend, and thereby hangs the tale. Sir Henry Cole, a man with many friends, was confronted by the task of sending them a cheery holiday greeting. The quill pens in use a century ago sputtered and were irritating, so Sir Henry spoke to Horsley about the matter. Horsley, a member of the Royal Academy in London, was agreeably impressed and turned out an appropriate design inscribed simply, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You."

Edgley and Horsley made beginnings. According to research authorities the custom was taken up in America about 30 years later during the 1870s when Louis Prang, a Boston lithographer, printed a catalogue of Christmas cards.

No matter whether the greeting is the elaborate descendant of Edgley's drawing, or a simple good wish offered in friendship as worked out by Sir Henry and Horsley, or the glorious echo of the angels' enunciation, send that Christmas card to the boy in the service—and to his loved ones keeping faith at home.

Woman's World

This is no place for a man—take Bobby's word for it. But Sis doesn't care. She knows exactly what she wants for Christmas. In fact, she already has her hands on it. And that smile on her face comes as close as anything could to denoting complete satisfaction with conditions in general.

Hearty Eating Cheered English at Christmastide

In old England they had many dishes which we seldom hear of now. There was "frumenty," a dish made of wheat which is still sometimes served in Yorkshire, ale posset, Shropshire "wigs," and carroway buns dipped in ale. Yule doughs or "dows" were eaten everywhere, and in Coventry they made their famous Godcake. Tansy, too, was a favorite dish. This was made with eggs and cream, flavored with the juice of tansy, an extremely bitter, aromatic herb. In addition there was Christmas brawn, "connynges" in gravy, and a host of dishes that have since died out.

Christmas was never a national festival in Scotland, but at this period of the year new "sowens" were always eaten. These were made from the husks and siftings of oatmeal mixed with molasses, and to all accounts were delicious.

Mince Pies for Luck— That's British Tradition

One of England's gay Christmas traditions centers around its delectable mince pies. It seems that each mince pie eaten between Christmas Eve and Twelfth Night will ensure a whole month of good luck in the coming year.

That works out to just about a pie a day for 12 days, to cover the calendar year — a stunt that would seem more likely to cause chronic dyspepsia than good fortune. But these aren't the pies we Americans are accustomed to—the English mince pie is about the size of a doughnut. To eat a dozen in as many days is no trick at all, when two or three of them can be gobbled with a cup of tea.

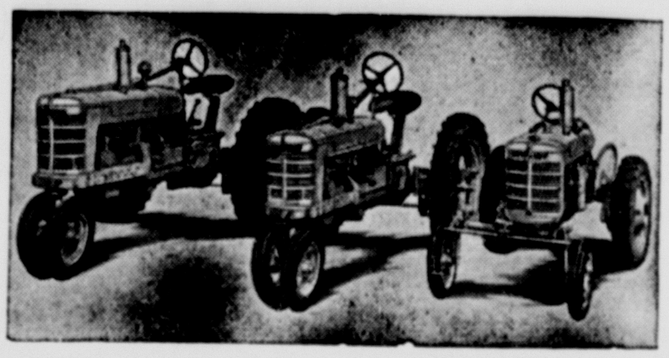
WHEN BALMY DAYS COME



Remember those fine, balmy days of Spring when you need your tractors? It is then that you must have your machine ready for immediate service. There will be no time to wait for repairs when planting time comes.

All of this adds up to the fact that NOW IS THE TIME THAT VITAL REPAIRS MUST BE MADE.

Our force of experienced mechanics are anxious to serve you. During the winter months our force will have time to carefully check your farm machinery, and parts will be available.

Next spring it may be different. You remember the times when your machinery broke down, and neither mechanics nor parts were available because of the run of the season. Next spring may see the same thing happen to farmers who fail to have those needed repairs made during the slack time of the winter months.

As we have told you many times, when new machines are available, you may depend upon it that INTERNATIONAL will have the first general supply on the market. New machinery is coming in and we ask you to confer with us. Available now are—

Feed Mills, Cream Separators, Grain Blowers, and Pump Engines.

Governor Names Dec. 8 As Kenny Day in Texas

Governor Coke R. Stevenson has proclaimed Saturday, December 8, as Sister Kenny Day in Texas. The 1945 appeal for the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Infantile Paralysis Foundation Fund is now underway throughout the nation and in Texas. George C. Francisco, Jr., of Houston, heads the state committee directing the campaign, and has announced that the Texas campaign, quota for which is $250,000, will officially end with Sister Kenny Day, but that due to lateness in getting organized the campaign will be extended in many counties.

Ultimate goal of the Texas committee is to build a clinic in this state. The immediate goal is to train sufficient Kenny technicians and nurses in Texas to make the Kenny treatment of polio available to every boy and girl who falls victim of the dread disease. There are now Kenny trained nurses and technicians in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Corpus Christi.

Kenny Day has been proclaimed by most states of the nation. Bing Crosby, national chairman of the polio campaign, will make a coast-to-coast broadcast, Monday, Dec. 5, in an appeal for support of the campaign. Crosby has spent most of his time since July directing the national campaign.

State headquarters of the Kenny campaign at the Driskill Hotel in Austin, has announced that it will accept contributions direct from the donors, where they have not been solicited. Each contributor to the campaign will receive a personal letter of thanks from National Chairman, Bing Crosby.

Situation in China May Get America Mixed in Trouble

The presence of American troops in China is necessitated by the reasons outlined by Vice Admiral Barbey in defining our policy with respect to China. The American forces are required for disarmament and repatriation of the Japanese, for rescue of Allied prisoners of war and protection of civilian internees. It is hardly plausible to assume that the Chinese Nationalist, involved in a full scale civil war with the Chinese Communists, can at the same time perform the necessary tasks being done by American forces.

Nevertheless, as Undersecretary of the Navy Gates pointed out, there is an acute danger of American involvement in the serious Chinese situation, and this hazard is possible hostilities with the Chinese Communists. Therefore, it should be obligatory upon the American forces to withdraw from China as soon as they have carried out their specific tasks of disarming the Japanese and rescuing war prisoners and civilian internees. The Russian policy of retiring from Manchuria would indicate the same procedure should be feasible for the United States in China.

Long time Chinese dissension threatens to destroy China's bright opportunity to step into the great role of leadership in the Orient that has been lost by Japan. From prolonged civil war, there can result only a divided, weakened China, and the possibility of independence of Manchuria has been suggested on some scores. In this situation, Japan could regain its former position of leadership after relaxation of Allied vigilance.

During the years of China's magnificent resistance to Japan, there was anticipated a postwar renaissance in Asia centering around China. Industrialization, stability and progress under democracy were envisioned by enlightened Chinese liberals. Hopes for China would seem to lie in this minority of democratic Chinese liberals rather than in the Nationalist or Communist factions.

Despite the able, enlightened leadership of Generalissimo Chaing Kai-Shek, the Nationalist group is said to be riddled with corruption, inefficiency and despotism, savoring of Fascism. There is basis for reforms in China that would lift the peasants from their plight of oppression and serfdom, although the agarian program of the Chinese Communists is probably too radical and socialistic. Taxation and heavy rents, squeezed from the Chinese peasants, are responsible for the impoverishment, backwardness and low state of the majority.

American aid to China should be conditioned upon the willingness of Chinese factions to reconcile their differences by compromise to the end of a greater, more prosperous China. In the present situation of civil war, the United States can afford only to carry out the war tasks of Japanese disarmament and prisoner liberation, and leave the future of China to the Chinese. If they throw away a bright opportunity, the blame falls on them alone. American lives and money should not be dissipated in a purely Chinese domestic situation.

Texas, the sixth state in population, contributed more than three-fourths of a million men and women to the armed forces.

Another Drive For Used Clothing For Europe in January

More than 2900 men and women thus far have agreed to serve as local chairmen in their communities for the Victory Clothing Collection for overseas relief scheduled for January 7-31, Henry J. Kaiser, national chairman for the drive, announced recently.

Wisconsin leads the states with 237 acceptances, topping New York's 178. Texas is third with 163, Pennsylvania has 132, Illinois 131 and Nebraska 127 chairmen.

The majority of these men and women organized their communities last spring in the collection of serviceable used clothing which furnished sorely needed garments to 25,000,000 war-victims of Europe, China and the Philippine Islands.

The goal of the January drive is 100,000,000 garments, in addition to shoes and bedding, for the needy and destitute in war-devastated lands. The collection is conducted on behalf of UNRRA.

Development of Household Appliances Discussed

The development of household appliances was discussed Tuesday at the Rotary luncheon by Clarence Thompson.

There is no written history on this subject, which is full of interest, stated the speaker. He pictured the early American home, which required untold energy and skill to run the household because of the crude appliances.

The earliest convenience was the introduction of the oil lamp. When Edison invented the first electric lamp great progress was started in illumination.

Franklin gave the world the first closed heating stove. From this the speaker traced the introduction of gas and electric stoves in recent years.

Ice was first delivered to homes in 1802; was not manufactured until 1850; and the first mechanical refrigerator introduced in 1924. Home refrigeration will be one of the future big industries.

Other inventions which have made homes more liveable are: The sewing machine; sewer systems; the telephone; air conditioning; electric irons; broadcasting and the radio development; vacuum cleaners; washing machines.

Great improvements have been made in all of these appliances in recent years. Mass production, advertising and standardization of power has increased the use of these items. For instance, vacuum cleaners increased from 18,000 in 1910 to 5,000,000 in 1925. Wired homes increased from 2,934,000 in 1910 to 13,406,771 in 1925. By 1942 there were 2,500,000 farm homes wired, with a possibility of about three million more to be wired soon.

In the meanwhile the rate per kw for electric power for domestic use had declined from 5.57c in 1932 to 3.67c in 1942.

New appliances for the home have given women more time for outside activities. The women of America have more conveniences in their homes than have the women of any nation in the world.

The introduction of new appliances will depend upon labor conditions, materials, taxes, and many other problems.

Dr. R. A. Neblett was welcomed back to the club after his service in the Medical Corps of the Army.

Rev. Hubert Thomson, new pastor of the Methodist Church, was introduced as a new member of the Club. He was president of the Wellington Rotary Club last year.

Visitors were: J. L. Harden of Canyon; J. E. Bowman, E. Joe Roy, Borger, Dr. W. B. Stevenson, John McCarty, all of Amarillo; Lt. Bob Cullender of the Navy.

Eel Is Traditional Christmas Serving

Eel is a traditional Italian Christmas dish. It is popular also with the Swedes, Dutch, French and English. In Victorian days, the eel pie was a feature of English fairs.

In North America, the eel captured in the St. Lawrence and along the Richelieu river in Quebec have the best taste. In England, the eel of the Severn river is of the meatiest grade, so much so, in fact, that before the war the Dutch kept two eel ships moored off of London bridge in accord with an ancient charter.

In North America, the eel is spawned in the Saragossa sea near Bermuda. Two thousand feet below the surface, the eel emerges from its egg, a flat and transparent creature. After growing an inch in length, the eel then joins the rest of the herd that starts its migration north.

The eels will swim for thousands of miles along the coast, heading into estuaries and tidal marshes. Males generally settle down, but the female restlessly moves on until finding waters exactly to her liking.

After settling, the eels feed and grow rapidly, adding a row of tiny scales with each birthday. When eight years old, they reach maturity. Then they return to the Saragossa sea to spawn. It is said they turn a silvery white during the breeding period.

Italian women have many special dishes for preparing this Christmas treat. There are recipes for baking, grilling and frying. The Swedes jell eel for smorgasbord. Cutting it into short lengths, they boil it tender and then mould the flaked white flesh in piquant vinegar aspic.

Christmas in New Mexico Marked by Indian Drama

Christmas in New Mexico is a subtle mixture of the past and present, with Indian ceremonials and Spanish-American folk customs existing alongside typically Christian celebrations. Most popular of Christmas ceremonials among New Mexico's Pueblo Indians is "Los Matachines," a dance drama which has its roots in the ancient Aztec civilization of Mexico. In many pueblos, especially those in the Rio Grande and Jemez valleys, ceremonial dances are performed after midnight mass, on Christmas eve, on Christmas day, and for the ensuing three days. The fortnight before and after Christmas renews the annual New Mexico presentations of age-old miracle plays.

Evergreens Freshen

Evergreens of the Northwest are among the most beautiful Christmas decorations. The common Douglas fir with its distinctive pendent cones fills a room with grace and fragrance.

Small spruces near the coast and some of the true firs of mountain forests also bring their fresh breath into the Christmas setting.

The spruces have stiff, prickly needles and are symmetrical. The true firs have regularly spaced, prim-looking branches and can be nicely decorated. For mantel vases, for wreaths and for door sprays pine with holly or cones and a bright bunch of berries or a gay red ribbon are a choice holiday motif.

Bayberry Wax

Many people used to utilize the bayberry for indoor decorations at Christmas time. In Maine and Massachusetts the wax which invests the berries was once collected to make into candles. It was obtained by boiling the berries in water, when the wax rose to the surface.

Under the name of bayberry tallow it was also used in soap making; in stiffening the ends of circular or solar lamp wicks. A relative, sweet-gale, grows on the border of ponds, and sweet-fern, also a sister of the pastures, was used for medicine.

Yule Tree Market

Spruce, hemlock and balsam are the principal types used in the eastern Christmas tree market.

There is a "Texas Club" aboard and LST in the bay at Tokyo.

What to Get Him? Make It Personal

Women are often puzzled when shopping for presents for a man. Gifts that any man should appreciate, however, are a shaving set, shoe kit, clothes brush set, or any of a number of articles that will help him to be well groomed.

They will surely like, for example, a set including cologne, shaving brush, shaving soap and non-greasy hair dressing, each in a mannish looking container.

One set comes in a wood veneer box with an early American design. The spice perfume, talcum powder, shaving cream and after-shaving lotion comes in pottery containers and is sufficiently mannish looking to flatter any masculine taste.

Cold weather chaps and roughens men's skins as well as women's. A good protective cream to use in cold weather would not be amiss. One company has a special cream for sensitive skins, too, also a polar cream to protect the skin in cold, windy weather. Men also need a good, non-sticky and greaseless hand cream.

A pair of handsome satinwood military brushes in a red, white and gold box, or three bath-size cakes of pine scented soap in a waterproof box, is another gift suggestion. Equally acceptable would be a streamlined shaving brush in a cylindrical case which holds the brush bristles downward when not in use; also a greaseless, slightly scented hair tonic in a mannish looking pottery jug.

Boxes Scarce, So Wrap Holiday Bundles Carefully

With paper, boxes and twine scarce, Christmas packages will have to be bundled with even more care than formerly.

Even in normal times, thousands of carelessly wrapped packages find their way through the mails, or have to be rebundled in the post offices. Where expensive or delicate articles are sloppily bound, enough damage may be caused to seriously damage the gifts.

In postal procedure in the larger cities, the mailed package is put in a sack. The sack is put on a belt, which carries it to a platform, where it is loaded on a truck. The truck carries it to the railroad station, where it is dropped by chute to a platform. It leaves the platform and is carried to its destination.

In this volume of handling, carelessly wrapped packages easily can be banged about and damaged.

Outdoor Yule Tree First Made Bow in Capital in 1923

In 1923 a beautiful evergreen tree, cut in the woods of Vermont, was sent to Washington and set up in Sherman square.

This tree was a gift from Middlebury college to the President of the United States. It was decorated and wired with hundreds of tiny electric lights, and on Christmas Eve President Coolidge switched on the lights of the First National Christmas tree.

The following year a beautiful living tree was planted in Sherman plaza behind the White House and a permanent underground electric service installed so that each year the same living tree can be decorated and illuminated.

The national example was quickly followed by many states and communities. Now every year brilliantly illuminated trees grace state capitol grounds, city squares and village greens.

Wearing of the turban in Persia was abolished by decree.

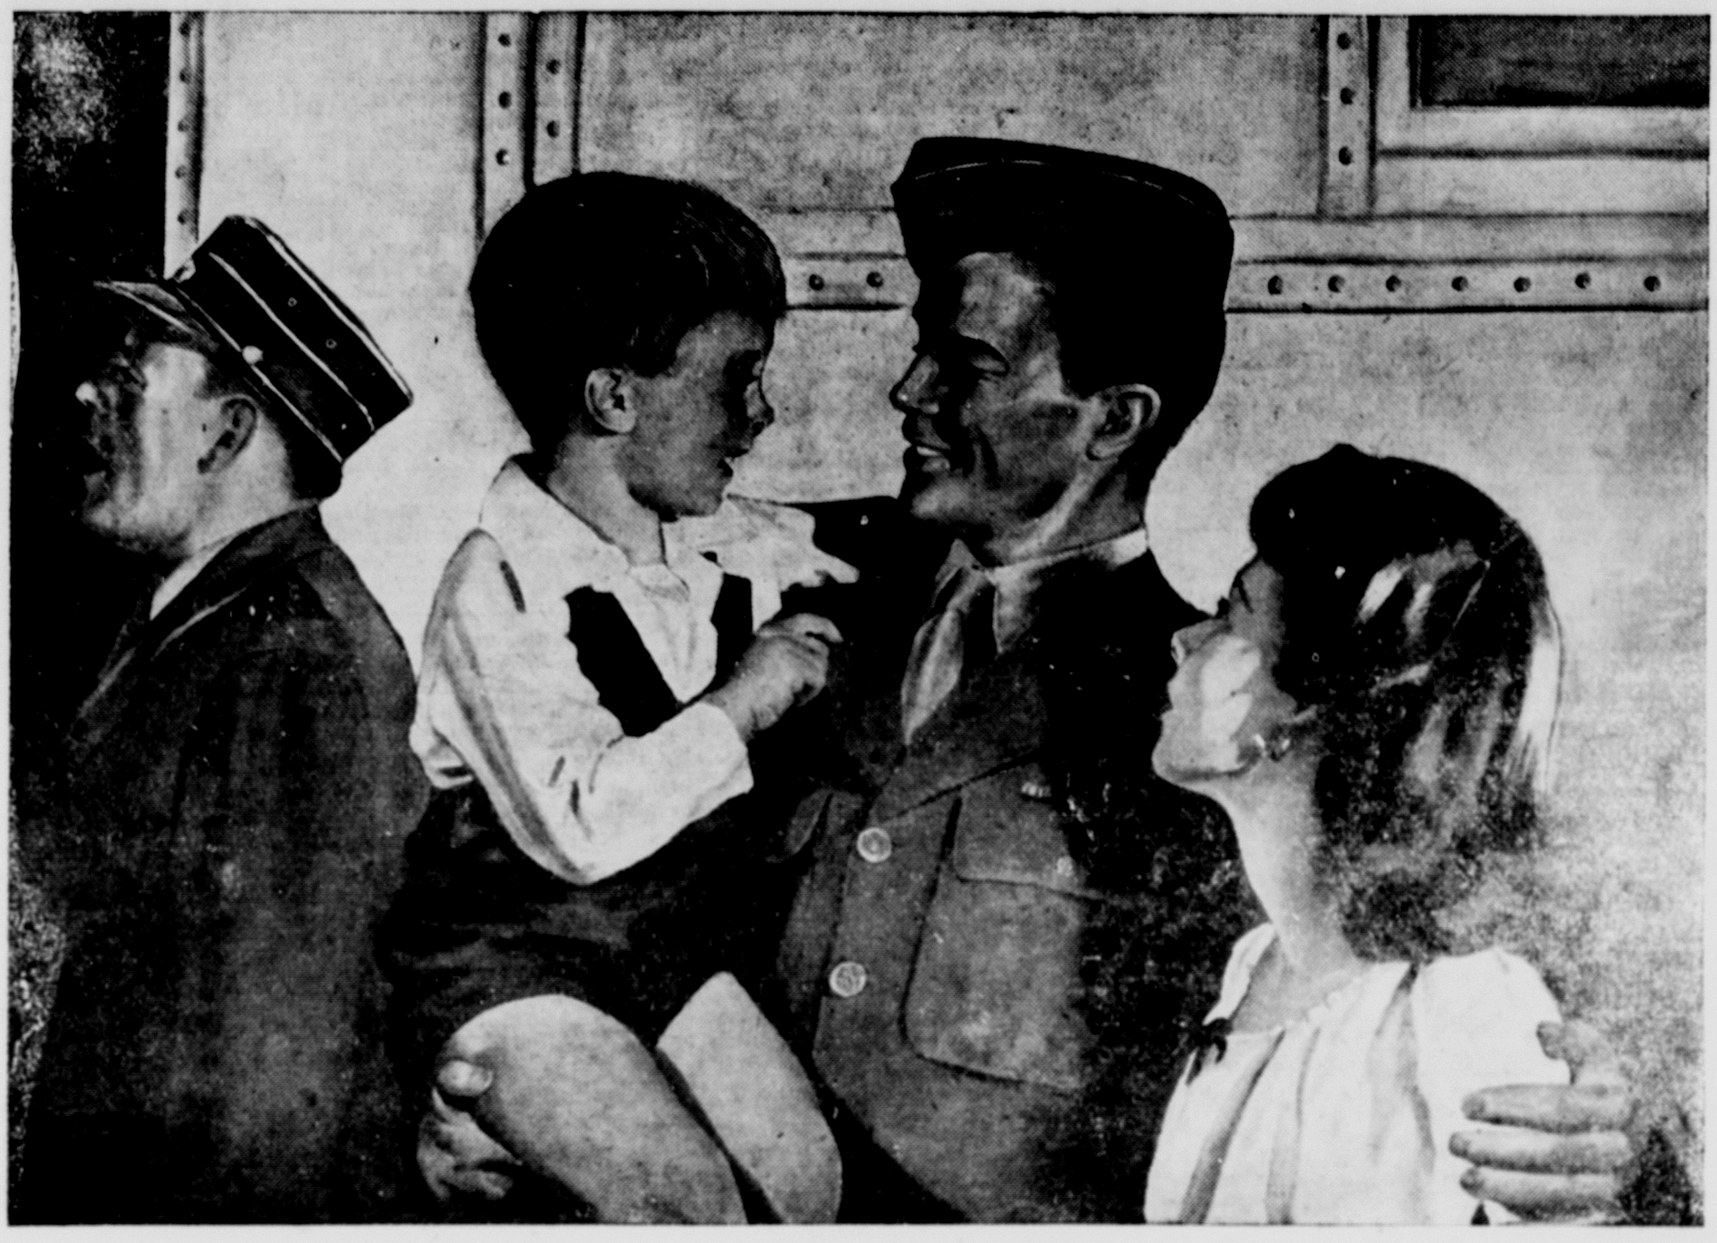
Buy More E Bonds for the Final Victory Drive



Something to remember when you say "Welcome Home!"

Some of our boys have waited years to hear those two words.

What they've endured for the sake of hearing them is more than we like to dwell upon.

But those two words, "Welcome Home!" can become just an empty phrase if you forget, for one minute, your responsibility to the man you say them to . . . and to the several million men overseas who are still yearning to come home.

What we're talking about, of course, is your responsibility to continue buying Bonds—and holding on to the ones you already have.

Your purchase of Victory Bonds helps the man who's just come home, helps him in a very real way. For your money, in Victory Bonds, helps prevent inflation—and that, in turn, means security for him, and a better chance to get a job.

And remember this: It will cost plenty of money to maintain and supply our forces of occupation . . . to bring home the men whose period of service so richly entitles them to return . . . and to care for the sick and wounded in our Navy and Army hospitals.

No—the job isn't over. You didn't think it was, did you?

Then show that you know it isn't over! Show it to the boys who've come home—and to those who wish they could—by buying another Bond—today!

'Little David,' World's Biggest

Here is something that is written in a style that is a parody on Luke 14:16-24 but it is worth thinking seriously about. It appeared in the Tulsa Herald and is entitled, "What Is Your Excuse?"

A certain church prepared a service of worship and invited whosoever would to come. And it sent forth a letter, saying to all its friends and members "Come for the minister and choir and sexton have made all things ready." And the majority began with tiresome repetition to make excuse.

The first said, "All week I labor hard and unceasingly. On Sunday, I must needs rest in bed until noon. Or, if I should arise at a respectable hour, there are many odd jobs to be done about the house; and, as a last resort, there is the Sunday paper. I pray thee have me excused."

And another said, "I have bought a car and on Sunday my family doth make a great clamor to be taken into the country. I am aware that on rainy Sundays when the car remaineth in the garage, I do not go to church either. But then I have some other excuse."

And another said, "I have children and behold! By the time they are dressed and fed and dispatched to Sunday School I have reached the end of my Sunday morning enthusiasm; and to get myself ready is more than I can manage. I pray thee, have me excused."

And another said, "I would fain come, but alas! when I was young and tender, my unwise parents did compel me to go to the church once, twice, even thrice a Sunday. And I became 'fed up" on church and have not yet digested the contents of this 'forced feeding.' Accept, I pray thee, this my valid and intelligent excuse."

And another said, "The members of my family are peculiar; they must needs eat on Sundays, the same as on other days. And if I go to church, will the minister send someone to prepare our dinner? To sit down to dinner an hour late is impossible, for we are not of a mind to subdue the call of the stomach to the needs of our immortal souls. To prepare the roast on Saturday is out of the question, for my cronies will accept no excuse for my absence from the weekly bridge party. I pray thee, have me excused."

And many other excuses of equal impressiveness did the people make. Yet did these same people raise a great hue and cry and make bitter lament when war and crime and corruption and all manner of evil did flourish greatly. And with one accord they began to make complaint, saying, "Why is not something done about these things?"

Wayside Items

Rev. Stuart filled his regular appointments Sunday morning and evening. We also had a Thanksgiving program and lunch before the preaching service in the evening.

Don't forget that on next Friday night our regular monthly singing will be at the church with Rev. Martin in charge. Every one is invited to attend.

Mrs. Velma Eddleman and little daughter, Patty, are coming to make their home with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Richerd until her husband, who is in the Pacific, returns home.

Miss Evelyn Culwell, who is teaching at the Webb school near McLean, spent Thanksgiving in the parental J. E. Culwell home.

Mrs. Neva Priest of the Amarillo Air Field spent Thanksgiving in the parental W. R. Moore home.

Mrs. M. B. Moore is visiting in the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. H. Shipman.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carter of Hereford visited over the week end in the Wyatt Heisler home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson and girls had Thanksgiving dinner in the home of her brother, Burl Shaw, in Sunray.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adams and sons were Happy and Tulia callers Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Adams were shopping in Amarillo Friday.

A shower was given at the Wayside Church Nov. 20 honoring the war brides, Mrs. Joyce Lane, Mrs. Kotten McGehee and Mrs. Clifford Stevens who are now establishing their homes in the Wayside community. Mrs. Melton McGehee and Mrs. Floyd Adams received the gifts and Mrs. LeRoy Roberts served refreshments of punch and cookies to 31 guests. Many other friends who could not come, sent gifts.

Jeannette Ramsey of Amarillo spent the week end in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Culwell.

J. E. Culwell's health is very bad. He went to Amarillo Sunday to be under the doctor's care.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Bessie Lane is doing well, but is still in the hospital.

Mrs. Othella McGehee visited Mrs. Bessie Lane in the hospital Saturday afternoon.

John Stockett, also John Ralph Kennedy and Billy Spann, all went deer hunting last week in South Texas. John bought 2 truck loads of cattle while he was gone.

A hotel manager, hearing of the whereabouts of a guest who had left without paying his bill, sent him a note: "Dear Mr. Skipper: Will you kindly send amount of your bill at once, and oblige."

In a few days he received an answer: "The amount of the bill is $22."

The wind blew. The man and woman walked side by side, holding their hats.

"When I left home," said the woman, "I had my hair combed!"

Said the bald man, "When I left home I had my hair!"

A young bride was much annoyed by her husband's presence in the kitchen while she was preparing dinner. And when he accidentally knocked her cook book to the floor, she flared up:

"Now look what you've done. You lost the place where I was getting my recipe, and now I haven't the least idea what I'm cooking."

"What's Pvt. O'Gultch burned up about?"

"He wrote his girl that he was on kitchen duty and she sent him a box of scouring powder, six dish towels and an apron."

WHY NOT GROW UP?

Emotional control is a yardstick of your maturity! Who's your boss, your brains or your feelings?

Perhaps you never thought of emotions as behavior. It is true that people ought to grow up emotionally as well as physically.

One of the most basic of all emotions is anger. If you find yourself becoming angry often, you'd better check up, for anger is a childish emotion. Temper tantrums are the extreme of childishness. With you high school students, they look as ridiculous as rompers!

A second emotion is fear. The best way to rid one's self of fear is to learn ways of dealing with what causes the fear.

Something that is natural with most people is envy and jealousy. These are the most infantile of all emotions. Indulging in these feelings is not only a waste of time, but it is also childish. Remember, that all of us have abilities which are worth developing as much as the abilities of the person for whom you feel envy. Those who are grown up in their emotions are happy to know of their friend's success.

Practice controlling your feelings. You can't live happily until they are under control!

JUNK IT

Junk something every day! Junk your worries, junk your fears, junk your little jealousies, envies, and hatreds. Whatever interfers with your getting up and getting on in the world—junk it! Every night before you go to sleep, put in the junk heap all your disappointments, all your grudges, your revengeful feelings. Junk everything that is hindering you from being a strong, fine character. The great trouble with most of us is that we haven't any junk heap of this sort. These mental enemies destroy half our vitality and energy, so that we have only the smaller amount left for the great achievements. JUNK IT!

Lunchroom Gives Balanced Meals

How would you like to sit down to a lunch consisting of the following foods: stew meat, mashed potatoes, green beans, celery sticks, plain cake, milk, butter, and bread? Or would you prefer this menu: chicken and dressing, creamed potatoes, apple sauce, carrot sticks, sliced tomatoes, milk, butter, and bread?

These are two of the meals that are served regularly in the Canyon High School lunchroom under the supervision of Miss Kathryn Davies, home economics teacher. With food furnished by the federal government, students now have the opportunity of obtaining balanced and well-cooked meals.

Mrs. J. H. Lisle, who has had two years experience supervising school lunches, together with her assistants may be found working busily from 8:00 a. m. until 3:00 p. m. every day preparing such meals as those listed above.

Say, kids, I hope you all don't have the tummy ache like I do. Boy, I really did justice to the turkey last Thursday, but I lived to bring you the news.

Gladys Lowe, was it that wonderful guitar music that made you fall for Fred Boren. Well, whatever it was, I heard you fell, but hard!

Mary Ann Parker was really doing O. K. Saturday night with Wilbert Long sitting on one side and Billy Abbott sitting behind her. Are you going to make up your mind or not?

I don't know if this is still true or not but I heard a little while back that Joanna Haines went around mooning over Carol Wray Dickerson.

It seems that Laverne Hinders has been toting Ervin Davis' ring and he has been wearing her bracelet. Not bad!

Someone told me that Max McDonald escorted Charlene Simmons around town Saturday night.

Sue Gillispie, you sure are doing fine at Canyon. Is it or is it not wonderful to go with Charles Wright? You did all right Saturday night, didn't you?

Well, Nancy Ann Nicklaus and Wayne "Rusty" Davis seem to be on the ball. Hey, how long has that been going on? You really make a cute couple! What I mean!

Thelma Bonds has really been having fun lately. I heard that she was with that tall, dark and handsome sailor, Jim Westfall every night while he was home on leave.

Frances Standley, why did you have to turn down that date Saturday night? Did it have anything to do with the wonderful time you had in Amarillo Friday night with Jimmy Knott?

June Jennings, which one of those two boys did you have the best time with the night of the freshman party? Surely must be fun to have a choice between two of them!

Hey, have you heard who James Meroney is going with? Well I haven't either! Wonder who she'll be? Joan Morton and Wynema Robbins did go riding with him Sunday, didn't they?

Bruce Winn, I bet you and Mary Jennings had a good time in the show Saturday night. Didn't ya'?

So there's the dope I found out
And until next week turn all
The news (or scandal) over to Cal!

Your lunch room is complying with all requirements as to sanitation, record keeping and reporting, menus and methods of serving. The meals are balanced and adequate from a nutritional standpoint. Servings are generous and your custom of allowing additional servings of food and milk to any child should satisfy the appetite of even the hungriest student.

Thank you for the many courtesies extended. Please call on us at any time we can be of assistance.

Very truly yours,

Monday afternoon, November 26, girls from all classes in high school met to form a volley ball club. Practice on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday began this week. Players for the first string will be chosen after approximately two weeks of practice. Coached by Miss Grace Aaron, the girls are practicing from 3:30 to 5:00. Officers for this club are Anita Johnigan, president; Louise Dickinson, secretary; and reporter, Frances Gooch.

A Kiss Goodnight Is Wrong or Is Right

Hey, you boys and girls better read this. It will help the boys out all year, they will know which one of the girls to try it on, and it will help the girls out this week. So girls watch it and try it on the right boys.

The question was asked around school this week: Should that goodnight after the date be fervent or formal?

Here is what some of the boys and girls said:

Louise Dickinson, "A little bit of both."

Malcolm Gunter, "Fervent."

Ray McDonald, "Fervent by all means."

Ruth Prichard, "Formal until you get to know them pretty well."

Anita Johnigan, "Depends on one's taste."

Frances Gooch, "It all depends."

Charles Wright, "Fervent! W-O-O-H!"

Mary Ann Parker, "It all depends whether I am with Wilbert."

C. L. Hood, "Fervent! Fervent! Fervent!

Valeta Haines, "Fervent by all means!"

Wayne Davis, "I'm part wolf so I howl fervent!"

Sue Gillispie, "Medium."

Clifford Burtz, "Fervent of course."

Juanita Avent, "The girl should decide."

James Inman, "You know me. Fervent!"

Are we awful?

FFA Boys Elect Annual Officers

Leaders and Advisor Have Discussion on Initiation

In the first F. F. A. meeting of the eyar held Tuesday morning, November 20, at 11:00, the chapter elected annual officers. They are: president, Ray McDonald; vice-president, Blake Zachry; secretary, Wesley Prater; reporter, James Inman; treasurer, G. J. Bonds; sentinel, Malcolm Gunter; and advisor, Mr. T. L. Devin. As yet, the historian and parliamentarian have not been elected. Also the F. F. A. sweetheart has not been chosen.

All boys who have had from one-half to one year of agriculture are able to become associate members, providing they pay the dues which have been set at one dollar per year.

Twenty-five boys compose the active membership roll. The so-called "green hands" of these twenty-five members will be initiated in the near future.

After the meeting was officially adjourned the officers together with the advisor, Mr. Devin, had a round table discussion on the initiation.

Possible Pretties Do Sonorous Soliloquies

Have you passed room 27 at the third period? And did you hear all sorts of noises issue forth from the doors, windows and transmos?

Don't be alarmed. This is only the speech class taught by Mrs. P. S. Merchant. All ah's and uh's that are sounded are really not from pain but are fundamentals of speech.

Because this is the first year for some time that speech has been offered at Canyon High School, the class is composed of a mixed group. Doing surprisingly well to be teaming with upperclassmen are the "fish."

To be found in this class are all kinds of voices. Three types needed for poetry are high, low, and medium. If low voice practice doesn't get the effect needed, there is always a high or medium voice selection to take the place.

This small class of 18 girls has several possible students with "screen oomph" but Mrs. Merchant is afraid to say just who the possible pretties might be for fear they would take a holiday from class!

The day after the eighth grade won a queen contest over several candidates, Shirley Harrison, senior candidate, actually practiced a queenly posture until her shoulders were sore and strained and she practically had to have the "doc" with her.

Another day, when several class cut-ups, namely, Anita Johnigan, Shirley Harrison, Cheri Kilchriste, Billie Jo Wallen, and Louise Dickinson, were absent from class on an advertising tour with the Press Club, Mrs. Merchant gave them full credit in Speech class because the business men said they, with the rest of the Press Club, were making successful contacts with the public.

In voice exercise, Norma Zachry has been asked to contribute her bit as a vocalist, but she says that she does voice exercise on her back. We wonder how she's going to perform on the stage.

Louise Dickinson says to tell the fellows with old jalopys to come on, for in pantomime, she really can manipulate an old one.

In speaking to the underclassmen in this speech class, Mrs. Merchant says, "These girls have done exceedingly well in bringing to class outstanding selections on which to base their work."

Ray Stone withdrew from Canyon High School November 26, where he was classified as a freshman.

Hunters are Warned Against Infection by Ticks–Treatments

With the hunting season now open, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, is urging that all hunters or other persons spending time in wooded areas use all possible precautions against being bitten by ticks which may infect the victim with relapsing fever. He further advises that when a tick is found, it be removed from the body as soon as possible and that care be taken not to crush the ticks in handling them.

"Tick-bite fever is contracted," Dr. Cox explained, "either from the bite of infected ticks or by absorbing the infectious material through breaks or scratches in the skin." According to Dr. Cox, the disease does not spread from person to person by direct contact but only thru the bite of an infected tick or body louse. Prompt removal of the insect is of the utmost importance.

Relapsing fever is characterized by sudden onset, intense headache, located in the front part of the head and pains in the back and limbs. The fever lasts from three to five days before slowly declining. The temperature will then remain normal for about a week when the fever repeats itself. There may be three, four, or even more such relapses, which accounts for the name of the disease.

Dr. Cox said that the wearing of suitable clothing so as to prevent ticks getting next to the skin is of importance in the prevention of this disease. The insects may be removed with the fingers but the use of tweezers is recommended since this helps to prevent leaving the head imbedded in the skin. After removing or handling a tick, the hands should be washed carefully with soap and warm water.

Shortbread Is Tasty Scotch Holiday Fare

WANT to please someone who "has everything" with a really extra special Christmas gift?

A festively decorated round of Royal Scotch shortbread is the perfect answer to that very pressing problem.

The familiar tartan-covered, heather-trimmed tins are missing from the stores this year, so we'll use a really wonderful old Christmas recipe from Scotland and make some ourselves instead.

A quarter cup of powdered sugar is all the recipe requires, so you can plan to make as many rounds as you can for Christmas gifts.

After all sugar is a very precious item this Christmas, isn't it, and it's good to know of something so delectable that does require so little!

One of the tricks in making good Scotch shortbread is to rub the butter into the flour mixture with the fingertips instead of a pastry blender. The butter softens slightly that way and absorbs the flour and sugar perfectly.

The sliced cherries and the chopped almonds are the ingredients that give the regal touch and unbelievably Christmassy texture to this usually somewhat austere Scotch specialty. It's so good you just have to taste it to believe it!

Save half a dozen of the most perfect cherries and almonds for decoration—or use bits of green angelica with the cherries instead.

If you have a box of glace fruit you can let your imagination run riot of course and really go to town, but in general the cherries will do the job very nicely indeed.

When the shortbread is baked, cut a round of white cardboard exactly the same size. Slide a broad spatula gently under the round of shortbread when it is cool and lift it carefully on to the cardboard.

Wrap gaily in cellophane and trim proudly with red ribbon and holly, for a gift of Royal Scotch shortbread is a very elegant gift indeed!

Royal Scotch Shortbread.
½ cup sifted flour
⅓ cup cornstarch
¼ cup powdered beet sugar
¼ cup butter
1 egg yolk, beaten
¼ cup chopped blanched almonds
⅓ cup candied cherries, quartered

Sift together flour, cornstarch and sugar. Add butter, blending with finger tips until thoroughly mixed. Add egg yolk, mix well with fork. Add almonds and cherries. Form into a ball. Place in the center of a greased cooky sheet. Pat or roll out about half an inch thick keeping as perfect a circle as possible. Pinch edges decoratively. Arrange halved cherries and almonds or angelica in the center. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for half an hour or until center is done and edges are lightly browned. Allow to cool. Loosen carefully with spatula before transferring from cooky sheet. The shortbread may be shaped into a square and cut into finger strips before baking if preferred.

Songfest

Almost any school teacher would envy Santa his ability to extract music from these youthful admirers. Their voices may not be those of the herald angels, but their dispositions at this time of year approach the angelic.

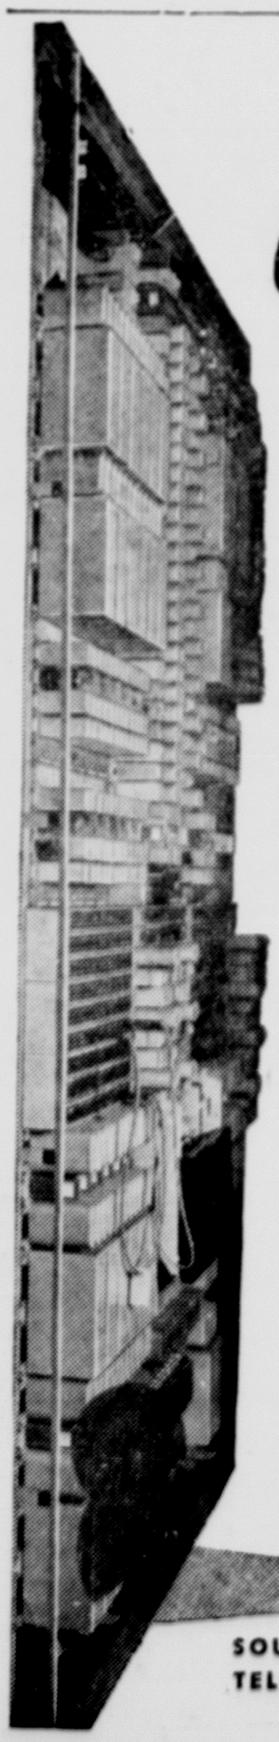
Cromwell's Decree Forbid Observance of Christmas

In the time of Cromwell, an edict forbidding the observance of Christmas was issued. It ordered all shops to be kept open on Christmas day, the shopkeepers to be protected against violence, and says "that no observation shall be had of the five and twentieth day of December, commonly called Christmas day; nor any solemnity used or exercised in churches upon that day in respect thereof."

Meaning of December

December is derived from "decem," meaning ten. In the old Roman calendar the year began in March and December was the tenth month.

Tennis tournaments at Wimbledon, England, date back to 1877.



Carriers HELP SPEED LONG DISTANCE

A big help in our job of providing urgently needed long distance circuits is a device called a "carrier."

Resembling somewhat the equipment inside your radio, carriers send or "carry" several long distance calls over one pair of wires at the same time. Some carriers handle 3 calls, some 12, others many more.

By installing carriers as fast as they're available, we're trying to provide as many new circuits as we can, as quickly as we can, to handle today's heavy load of long distance calls. Meanwhile, if any of your calls are delayed, we know you'll understand why.

You want an oil that's tough and strong as a red-eyed, rip-snorting bull!

Well, Mother Nature was a long time making this oil deep in the heart of Oklahoma, but what she made was rugged! Rugged enough to take the grinding, pounding punishment those engine parts get.

Not many folks can improve on Mother Nature. That's why we pump this lubricant from the heart of the finest oil lands . . . give it some special refining—and that's all! It's a natural alright! All its God-given lubricating qualities are unimpaired!

Why not keep an oil in your engine you can be sure about. Next time you see that Orange-and-Black "66" sign drive in and tell the man, "Fill 'er full o' Phillips!"

You won't find a more honest, natural lubricating oil in America!

"Fill 'er Full o' Phillips!"

When the wife stares at us with that far-off look in her eyes, we often wonder if she isn't thinking that perhaps she is the "early bird" they talk so much about.

People with poor eyesight are the hardest workers. They can't tell when the boss is looking.

Some women look like they had just come from the beauty parlor, and the place was closed.

Why is it that some people are humbly grateful, while others are grumbly hateful.

She is a wise girl who looks for a single man and not a husband.
